

27th Annual Rural West Internship Program For Diversity in Nonprofit Housing And Community Development

2024-25 Internship Application

Priority Deadline to Apply: April 5th, 2024

Applications will be accepted until positions are filled

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND APPLICATION FORM

(Please read carefully before applying)

The California Coalition for Rural Housing (CCRH) is proud to announce its 27th Annual Rural West Internship Program for Diversity in Nonprofit Housing and Community Development (Internship Program). The Program operates in California, Hawaii, Oregon, and Washington State.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM'S OBJECTIVES

The CCRH Internship Program is a one-year paid Internship designed to recruit, train, and retain housing development professionals who enhance inclusion and racial equity within the Affordable Housing Development field. CCRH member nonprofit organizations have responded to the need for affordable housing by building, maintaining, and rehabilitating affordable housing complexes in the rural West since the 1960s. This internship is intended to provide an entry into the affordable housing and community development field to historically underrepresented college students from low-income, rural, and ethnically diverse communities representative of the growing diverse populations served by these nonprofit housing developers. We strongly encourage applications from recent college graduates or students entering their last year of college so that upon graduating from college, they may be able to be employed in entry-level professional positions in the field. Students from all majors are encouraged to apply.

HOW THE INTERNSHIP WORKS

There are three main entities that make up the program: The Intern, CCRH, and the Host Agency. CCRH is a nonprofit organization that serves as the Program Administrator and coordinator of the program. We are not a public/government agency. CCRH sponsors the program and coordinates all trainings and supplemental program activities. The Host Agency is the location where each Intern carries out their day-to-day work. Each year, an average of twelve interns participate working and learning at a nonprofit affordable housing developer or housing authority. Interns are selected via a competitive application process from across each state, and placed with a host agency for one year, beginning work in the summer (full-time) and continuing through the spring (part-time). The intern works closely with a supervisor and follows an Intern Work Plan that provides a well-rounded intern experience in the field of nonprofit affordable housing and community development. Host agencies sign agreements with CCRH, and Interns sign agreements with their respective host agency to ensure an understanding of the program terms and policies, and to ensure an optimal experience for the Intern and the Host Agency. Selected interns are placed at host agencies located within driving distance of the university they attend.

During the year, the intern will be actively involved in affordable housing development. The intern will learn hands on what it takes to create affordable healthy living communities, and specifically learn the intricacies of developing and rehabilitating multifamily housing complexes from concept inception to construction completion for low-income and ethnically diverse communities.

On the job learning: Host Agencies will provide opportunities to gain hands-on experience in areas such as these:

- Participating and helping facilitate community meetings about proposed housing developments;
- Assisting with land and property acquisitions;
- Conducting assessments or needs surveys to determine the housing and community development needs of low-income people;

- Participating in planning meetings with the architect and property management on the design of architectural drawings for affordable housing developments and community facilities such as child-care centers and community recreation buildings;
- Assisting with the financial applications and loan closings for housing developments.
- Participating in construction meetings and preparing construction draw requests.

In addition, interns will be exposed to different leadership styles via CEO and Executive Director shadowing experiences; and can further develop their leadership skills through the program's supplemental activities described below.

PROGRAM ACTIVITIES AND OTHER OPPORTUNITIES

The Intern's Program year will include a variety of professional and personal skills development opportunities. Interns also get to build community with their peer group and program alumni through various activities and develop strong long-lasting relationships because of the work and activities that occur over the year. These activities will be conducted in a combination of online and in-person sessions. Some of these opportunities include:

Summer Training Institute. Interns begin the program working at their host agencies and then shortly thereafter start attending 2-hour sessions of online training up to two times a week. All interns are expected to attend a four-day in-person training at UC Davis during the last week of July. The rest of the intensive summer training takes place online until the end of August 2-hour sessions three times a week. The Institute is an intensive training where professionals from the industry teach various affordable housing and community development topics. The Institute also provides personal development tools, such as communication and negotiation techniques that Interns can use in their professional and personal lives. The Institute activities help Interns to get to know each other on a personal level and forge bonding relationships with one another so that they feel comfortable communicating and confiding via email/social media/phone once they return home.

CCRH Rural Summit and Statewide Housing Conferences: California Interns can attend and participate in CCRH's renowned Annual Rural Housing Summit, while Hawaii, Washington state, and Oregon Interns are encouraged to attend their respective statewide Annual Housing Conference. These events usually occur between September and November. Interns will prepare and deliver a brief collective intern presentation at the Rural Housing Summit as part of a plenary.

The Mid-Winter Training: In January Interns take a weekend to participate in a skills development/retreat where they reflect on their intern experience and gain additional soft skills and housing & community development tools.

Enrichment Opportunities: Interns are regularly informed of community development events and news via an Intern email communication initiated by CCRH's Program Staff and may be invited to attend one statewide or regional housing conference, depending on opportunities. Some Host Agencies sponsor their respective Intern to other non-CCRH trainings, such as the Neighbor Works America National Training Institute, National Rural Housing Conference, etc., (depending on the Host Agency and CCRH partners). Interns are encouraged to apply for conference registration scholarships, when available to attend these convenings.

Final Project. Interns culminate the program with the presentation of a housing development project they have worked on during the year where they must convince a mock city council that their development project is feasible and an asset to the community.

Graduation: Successful Intern graduates participate in a special graduation ceremony typically hosted in May. The graduation is attended by Intern families, CCRH intern alumni, nonprofit leaders, and practitioners from across each state.

Resources and Employment Opportunities after Graduation: CCRH staff support initial and ongoing professional opportunities for Interns and program alumni by aggressively promoting the employment of graduating interns. Staff actively connects graduating interns with nonprofits with jobs available via direct dialogues with its nonprofit network. On a longer-term basis, CCRH keeps a database of graduating Interns on file and regularly forwards job announcements and resources to the group. CCRH staff often serves as references for Intern graduates.

INTERNSHIP PROGRAM TERM AND PAY

The term of the program is for one year and the Internship starts as early as June 1, 2024, and ends May 31, 2025. Interns will most likely work in a combination of remote and in-person day-to-day work at the host site. Interns are paid $18.00 per hour. For external CCRH program-sponsored training, CCRH pays for all intern travel, lodging, and meals per CCRH guidelines.

Who Should Apply

Preference is given to undergraduate college students entering their last year of school and recent college graduates, who want to pursue a career in the nonprofit housing and community development field, have a solid understanding of basic math calculations, have good writing skills, have Excel (spreadsheet) skills, are from rural, farm-worker, American Indian Reservations/Rancherias, immigrant or low-income backgrounds, and demonstrate a commitment to improve the quality of life of low-income and rural communities. The program encourages applications from various majors. Access to reliable transportation is desired. We are seeking Interns, who live or will be living within driving distance to the internship locations available. See the locations listed below. CCRH does not provide relocation or housing assistance. Historically underrepresented, local students, especially those with lived experience related to affordable housing are strongly encouraged to apply. A strong commitment to affordable housing and social justice is a must!
